

BATTLE AT A WINDOW.

A Wife's Fearful Struggle with Her Husband.

Her Desperate Resistance Alone Saved Her and a Child.

Farrell, Still Drunk, and His Father Held for Trial.

Martin Farrell, Jr., a big longshoreman, attempted to kill his wife and four-month-old child by throwing them out of a window at 7 o'clock this morning while drunk.

The Farrells live on the third floor, rear, of 33 Washington street. Martin Farrell, Jr., employed on the Vesey street pier, also lives with them.

The younger Farrell had been drinking for some days, and this morning he wrangled with his wife and then attempted to push her and the baby through the window to the yard below.

In the struggle Mrs. Farrell was half-way out of the window two or three times, but by her fighting she managed to get out of his grasp and call for help.

Policeman Brownell, of the Church street station, heard her screams and rushed into the room just in time to see Farrell make another rush for his wife.

The policeman, who is a big man, tackled Farrell, and a hot fight resulted. The officer was forced to half-carry Farrell to the station, as he fought all the way.

Mrs. Farrell's face presented a horrible appearance. On the left eye was a long, red mark, caused by her husband scratching her, and her throat was black and blue. She said she was given her by Farrell, Jr.

He was also arrested and arraigned, together with his son, before Justice Ryan, in the Tombs Court, this morning.

The younger Farrell was drunk and could not even tell his name. He lay in the prisoner's pen for over an hour, and Justice Ryan had a complaint made and held both in $300 bail for examination to-morrow.

SAYS SHE WAS DRUGGED.

But Pretty Donna Millard Goes Up for Ten Days.

Donna Millard, a dark-eyed Spanish beauty, with short, curly black hair, who claims to be but nineteen years old, an actress, and living at 83 East Fifty-ninth street, was arraigned as a prisoner at the Yorkville Police Court today by Policeman Brownell, of the West Forty-seventh street squad.

Winchell said he found her lying on the floor of the billiard-room in Monahan's liquor-store, at Fifty-sixth street and Ninth avenue, drunk and stupefied from the effects of drink, and had her removed to the East Sixty-seventh street station-house.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

SLASHED WITH A RAZOR.

A Fourteen-Year-Old Colored Lass Held in $1,000 for Examination.

Fourteen-year-old Jessie Jeniet, colored, who resides at 230 West Forty-seventh street, and a young Italian girl of about the same age named Rosie Lamonte, who lives in the same house, quarreled in July last.

The two met again on July 10 at Broadway and Forty-seventh street. Jessie was talking to a young colored boy, when Rosie, with her young sister in her arms, came along. The quarrel was renewed. Each called the other hard names. Jessie's companion the colored boy, when the quarrel was at its height drew a razor, and thrusting it into Jessie's hand, told her to cut only the baby's dress.

Jessie needed no second bidding. She made a vicious slash at the baby Rosie, and cut only the baby's dress. Then she assaulted Rosie, cutting her twice across the back and face. Jessie then became frightened, ran home and told her father, who to keep her from the reach of the police sent her to friends in Maryland.

Rosie was removed to Roosevelt Hospital, where she was confined for a week. She is said to have been in a bad way. A day or two ago she learned that Jessie had returned to this city. Rosie was arrested last night by Court Detective Seiler at her home.

Justice Meade this morning held her in $1,000 bonds for examination on Saturday.

SHE THREW AWAY MONEY.

Freck of a Drunken Woman in a Chicago Restaurant.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Emma Coleman spent the night at the Harrison Street Annex. She is twenty-four years of age, and good looking. Her father is a respectable citizen of Danville, Ill. It is said that some time ago Emma, because of her wayward ways, was cast off by her family. Recently her mother died of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

She returned with the money, which was in bills of denominations of $5, $10 and $20, to her mother. She proceeded to spend the money, and engaged Cabman Joseph Oro to drive her about town. She was seen by a policeman on Wabash avenue, near Lake street, and was arrested. She was taken to the Annex. It was found she still had $1.15 left out of the $1,000.

WOMAN OUTLAW ARRESTED.

Ex-Leavenworth Belle Turns Horse Thief and Adopts Male Attire.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Deputy Marshals from the Onago country have brought to this place and lodged in jail a good-looking girl who was in male attire. They had arrested her on a charge of horse-stealing. There was something mysterious about the girl, who refused absolutely to talk of herself, and the officers began an investigation. They found that she had been for two years a leader of the most daring horse thieves in the Territory, and has been stolen several scores of valuable animals.

She is Mary Hopkins, the daughter of a well-to-do Kansas farmer, and was at one time the belle in Leavenworth so that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

When she recovered, she said that she must have been drugged by Charles Woods, who lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and who is a frequent visitor at Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

According to her story she went into the saloon at 5 o'clock in the evening with a girl named Frankie Rogers, who also lives at 111 East Fifty-ninth street, and had a drink of whiskey in one of the billiard-parlors in Monahan's liquor-store. She said that she was a member of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company last season, but was at present out of an engagement.

REVIVAL OF "SHENANDOAN."

Much Altered and Improved. It Pleases a Large Audience.

Lillian Russell's London Interview—Other Stage News.

The Academy of Music had a packed house last night, when a large, far-reaching and most portentous revival of Bronson Howard's "Shenandoan" was given to the public. The drama was first introduced to New Yorkers a few seasons ago at the Star Theatre, but the production then was as water unto wine compared with last night's glories. Mr. Howard has made a few alterations, and prepared the way, as it were, for pictorial embellishment. Howard is so much of an artist to permit the impertinence of spectacular irrelevancy. The splendid scenes were all perfectly logical, and the new features were naturally introduced. The third act is so vivid and realistic that it would alone fill the Academy for a long time to come. The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors. The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

The audience was intensely enthusiastic, and Bronson Howard had to come before the curtain and make a speech. It is not usual for authors to thank audiences for approving a revival, so Mr. Howard may consider that "Shenandoan" has won for him extraordinary honors.

DON'T BELIEVE IN FUTURES.

An Alleged Fortune-Teller Held for Swindling a Woman Client.

Eliza Ellis, a fortune teller, fifty years old, of 248 Sixth avenue, who was arrested last night by Detectives Day and Callahan, of the Tenderloin precinct, was held for examination at Jefferson Market Court today, and paroled in the custody of her attorney.

Mrs. Ellis is charged with obtaining money by trick and device, in claiming to be able to foretell the future. The case was reported at the West Thirtieth street station by a woman who had paid Mrs. Ellis $25 to find her lost daughter, without getting satisfaction.

Day called on the fortune-teller yesterday, and learned more about women that are in love with him than he ever could find out by legitimate means.

ACCUSES A MISSING ANGEL.

Pittsburgh Widow Says McCrickart Swindled Her Out of $7,500.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31.—The probable explanation of the sudden disappearance ten days ago of the well-known insurance agent, John E. McCrickart, is found in the discovery to-day of a warrant issued by Judge McCracken, of this city, for his arrest.

Mrs. Mary Montgomery, a wealthy widow of the East End, says that she is the victim of a swindle. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years.

Mrs. Montgomery says that she was deceived by McCrickart, who she says had been her friend for many years. She says that she